Hi,

First of all would like to congratulate on the work you guys have been doing! Have been following your work. All I can say is keep the good work going.

We need guys like you 🏆

On your questions I would like to clarify we use our social media platforms as brand promotions and if someone approaches us we always follow the ethics and the genuineness of an individual.

I had clearly stated that I won't demean any party or promote anything which is not right or not true. When I was approached. It was very clear from your team also not to post anything which does not exist. The idea was just to highlight the good works which is not wrong and I am sure you would agree.

I would still do the same if anyone wants me to speak about their good deeds. Anyone who does good to the society wants their work to be highlighted either through celebrity social media platforms, news channels or through newspapers. So nothing wrong in that.

Regarding the contract thing, yes I had clearly stated I will sign and put everything on paper. That's what any celebrity does when they endorse a brand.

Promoting political parties, brands, endorsements is not wrong as long as you believe in the product and their ideologies.

I would still promote anything which is a good deed or a good ideology by any party 🙏👍

Keep the good work going 👍👍

Regards
